From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated April 29.

Warsaw, April 12.

THE News we have here is as various as there are Parties. A Report was spread that the King of Poland had been beaten by the Swedish General Reenschild, and that in repassing the Bridge which his Majesty had caus'd to be laid over the Vistula at Pietrowin 1500 Saxons were drown'd, besides what were kill'd, wounded, or taken Prisoners, and that the King himself narrowly escap'd being taken: But Letters of the 4th and 7th instant, that came from the Court and the Army, tell us what follows.

Petrowin, April 4. 'The 31st of last Month the 'Bridge of Boats over the Vistula was finish, 'and two Battallions of Foot took post on the other 'side of the River, and threw up a Breastwork: 'The same day some Wallachians belonging to the 'Swedish Army apppear'd marching towards the 'River, and the next day the whole Body com-'manded by General Reenschild advanc'd directly 'towards the Bridge; whereupon, the 2 Battallions 'being too weak to make good their Ground against 'them, the King order'd them to retire over the 'Bridge, and that part of the Bridge should be broken 'down. The Swedes march'd into the Retrenchments 'on the other side, and cannonaded us, but were oblig'd 'by our Batteries from this side to quit those Re-'trenchments and retire further off from the River 'side. They lost several Men on this occasion; and 'we had some wounded but none kill'd.

The same Letters advise, that General Brand was arriv'd with a Body of Troops he commands, within 3 Leagues of his Majesty; and that the Starost Sanok came lately to his said Majesty with a secret Commission from the Army of Lithuania, and was dispatch'd back again with great Expedition. 'Tis said he assur'd the King that the said Army would soon joyn his Majesty, and that 40 Troops led by Monsieur Baranowiez were actually arriv'd at Wengrow on their way to Pietrowin. The Palatiuat of Cujavia, which is in Great Poland, has sent Deputies to the King to assure him of their Fidelity, and that they abhor the Proceedings of the Conventicle at Warsaw. The Starost of Pils has sent Advice to his Majesty that the 3d Instant at break of Day he attack'd some Swedish Troops in the Town of Opatou, and kill'd 150 Men, and took divers Prisoners; among them an Ensign of the Regiment of Patkul. This Party of Swedes were getting in Contribution, which they were forc'd to abandon, with above 100 Waggons; and what they had exacted from the poor People is restor'd to them agen by his Majesty's Order. When the Swedes drew near the Head of the Bridge on the other side of the River, the King went out with a Party to take a View of them, and was so near them that one of his Pages was taken Prisoner. The Swedish General made him dine at his Table, drank his Majesty's Health to him, and afterwards gave him his Liberty; The Page is since come to Pietrowin; he reports he saw 4 Waggons of Wounded Men in the Swedish Camp, and that the General himself acknowledg'd he had 60 of his Men kill'd by our Cannon.
